

Rose Chambers
VP, Outside Plant Construction – Planning & Program Delivery
Cox Communications

Rose Chambers serves as Vice President of Outside Plant Construction – Planning and Program Delivery for Cox Communications. She is responsible for all planning and program delivery for Outside Plant Construction, including the Network Transformation 2.0 program – a multi-year program designed to deliver the next generation of network capacity that will allow Cox to meet customer demand, address competitive challenges and enable superior product experiences. She oversees the teams responsible for managing residential construction, capital planning, performance management and tools and reporting solutions. Rose also leads the Network Fulfillment program, a cross-functional effort to enable the end-to-end automation and visibility of all fulfillment activities.

In her previous role, Rose served as Vice President of Enterprise Portfolio Management for Cox Communications where she was responsible for managing the $250M+ capital investment portfolio reserved for key strategic initiatives. She was also responsible for investment governance, program delivery, enterprise change coordination, and product insights analytics and reporting. She was also as the executive sponsor of the LEAD program, a 2-year leadership development program.

Rose has served in the telecommunications and cable industry for over 25 years and has a successful track record delivering complex technology and business transformation projects. Before joining Cox in 2011, Rose was a Vice President at CapGemini where she led large business transformation programs for Communications clients in the US and Europe. She also spent 12 years at BellSouth as Executive Director of Information Technology – Software Delivery where she was responsible for BellSouth’s retail billing systems, which produced over 30 million invoices per month, and directed a global delivery team of 350+ resources.

Rose is a member of WICT and has served in multiple roles on the board of directors for the Southeast chapter. She is a graduate of the WICT Betsy Magness Leadership Institute program (Class 34).

She is a member of the Board of Directors for the Spruill Center for the Arts, a private, non-profit organization offering classes, professional artist exhibitions and outreach programs. She also serves on the capital campaign committee for the Dunwoody Nature Center.
